Straight Talk: A Call to Action

A discussion focusing on Substance Misuse

Monday, Nov. 20th from 7 - 8:30 PM
at Kingswood Arts Center in Wolfeboro

Huggins Hospital, Carroll County Coalition for Public Health and Team Wolfeboro have come together to offer a forum for families. We will hear how the community is addressing the substance misuse problem from Chief Dean Rondeau of the Wolfeboro Police Department, Melissa Fernald, LICSW, students and staff of SAU49, Huggins Hospital, youth recreation and others.

Our goal for the evening is to launch a community coalition to promote kids' ability to make healthy choices, and to support families in healthy drug-free living. We aim to energize parents to take action with their children and teens to address the problem of substance misuse. This interactive evening will provide brief expert presentations and opportunities for conversation.

We will offer parents and families support resources, tools for action and ways to get involved in solving this major problem in our community.

Come and be part of the solution!
